

London Underground

INFORMATION SAVES TIME

London Underground exists to serve one of the greatest cities in the world. The Mayor's vision defines London as a pre-eminent financial centre, a meeting place of diverse cultures, a vibrant destination for national and international visitors, a growing and developing metropolis and, of course, the host city for the 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games.

"Harp were known to us by their work on video wall projects for the Tube Lines operations centre and Jubilee Signalling control room. They were recommended from within the organisation as a company that can deliver quality quickly.

They were commissioned to deliver six trail screens within 6 weeks that were all completed and certified for use in the underground environment. This they did and were rewarded with a further 80 screens for which the time constraints were less harsh."
